

BMS World Mission

Transforming lives

The Douglas Family have returned from a dry and brown Home Assignment in the UK to a wet, muddy and lush Nepal. They enjoyed visiting many Churches, family and friends and were very encouraged seeing faithfulness to God and the support that so many are giving to them and all of the ministry of BMS.

Whilst at home they were able to reflect on the preceding year, a chance to take stock especially as they have just marked their 6th anniversary in Nepal.

In the UK Angus spoke about the altars that the Israelites had erected as they travelled to mark special moments of forgiveness, provision or encounters with God. These were often pillars of stone and stood as tangible reminders, to those who journeyed along the same way, of the faithfulness of God. They could look back across the wilderness and see those altars and remember.

Therefore, this summer they looked back on the altar moments, big and small, where they have known God's guidance or provision. The biggest and most unmissable was the successful completion of the KISC building project and moving to the new site in March.

Then in May the running of PAH'S first Medical Humanities Course for undergraduate students that Helen helped to write and deliver. July marked the completion of Helen's MSc in Medical Education (results not out until Dec).

For the children it has been a big year; not only have they moved house and school, but each has learned lots, matured and grown taller and in shoe size!! This has meant multiple shopping trips in the UK!! Caleb, year 10, towers over Helen and Angus, Charis has completed her primary education and started year 7, and Esther is now in year 4. Sometimes it is good to stand still, look back, remember and be thankful. They have known God's hand in the small and big things, giving them grace and patience to deal with frustrations or putting folks in their path to encourage them. There is much that they do not know about the year ahead but they know that He who is Faithful is with them. Please continue to Pray for KISC fundraising - for guidance for future roles and responsibilities - for their ongoing adoption journey - that they would be the aroma of Christ wherever they go and serve. They are praising God that Helen's Mum, Ruth is still in remission from her cancer. Thank God for this dear family and remember them before Him each day.

The Tjiwana Family are doing well. They are very busy - Zeka with his Masters Course, which is going well (except the workload keeps increasing) and Anita with her Teacher Training course (she has passed her first half). They had a little celebration when Jorma and Yochanan had their 3rd birthday in July and the girls, Sally and Sarah, are looking forward to going up to grade 1 next year. Zeka has managed to go back to Tsumkwe on a short Ministry trip reaching out to the youth. They would appreciate our Prayers for parental wisdom and for their spiritual growth, and for wisdom in working with others who do not necessarily embrace any change.
